

Rites of Jewish Holy Days Now Being Observed

Beginning at sunset last Friday with Rosh Hashana, the religious New Year, a 10-day period of Jewish High Holidays will continue until next Sunday evening, Oct. 11, when they will be climaxed by Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement).

These Jewish Holy Days are a period of prayers and penitence. Yom Kippur is a day of fasting and devotions when the shofar (ram's horn) is sounded as a call to conscience.

Councilmen Will Inquire About Civic Use of School Auditoriums

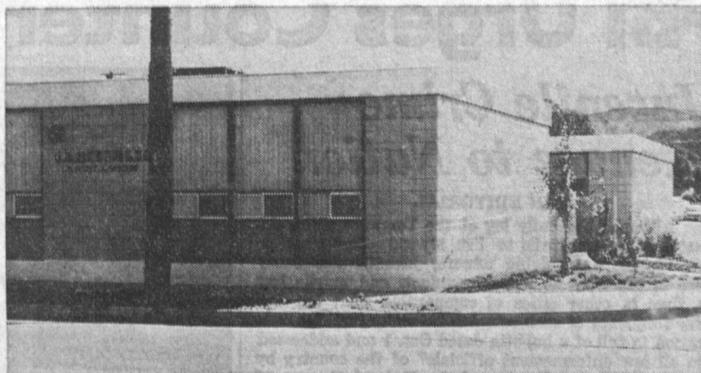

If they aren't already, various school auditoriums and cafeteriums of the Torrance Unified School District should be made available to the fullest extent for use by various civic community groups.

This was the declaration of Mayor Albert Isen at last Tuesday's meeting of the City Council after reading of a communication from the North Torrance Civic Association, requesting consideration of a bond issue to erect public meeting halls in various sections of the city.

With the former Civic Auditorium now being razed to make way for a bank building, and the proceeds of the sale property going into a fund for erection of a new auditorium on the Civic Center Site, the appropriation of municipal funds for other public meeting places is unlikely for a long time, the Mayor observed.

Other members of the Council agreed and approved appointment of a committee consisting of Councilmen Willys Blount, George Bradford and Victor Benstead to confer with the Board of Education on possible wider use of public school facilities for civic purposes.

MAY HAVE TO MOVE IT—The Medical Bldg. on the Southwest corner of Newton St. and Loytan Ave. protrudes 4 feet, 8 inches into a dedicated public right of way, and the City Council has ordered the owner to either move the building back to his own private property line or indemnify the municipality against potential liability which will always exist by virtue of the alleged encroachment.

Sustains Head Injuries in 18-Foot Fall

In a narrow escape from death, Steven Barnes, 34, of 15727 S. White St., Compton, suffered serious head injuries last Wednesday noon when he fell some 18 feet off of a building under construction at Hawthorne and Carson.

Taken first to Harbor General Hospital by Goodhue Ambulance service for emergency treatment, he was moved soon after to Physicians and Surgeons Hospital in Compton, where he was reported Friday as "doing nicely."

Torrance Teachers Will Get Review of Future on Tuesday

Torrance's teachers will get a preview of the future next Tuesday, as Dr. Irving Melbo, noted educator, takes a look at "Education for the Year 2000."

The meeting will be in the Torrance High School Auditorium at 4 p.m. Tuesday, and will be an institute for all teachers.

Dean of the School of Education and the University of Southern California and research director for the Torrance Schools, Dr. Melbo will consider some of the problems of education and some of the possible changes that will be needed to live 40 years hence.

Dr. Melbo has been at U.S.C. since 1939, except for service in the Navy as lieutenant during the war. He is a former deputy superintendent for Alameda County, director of research for Oakland, and staff member of the State Department of Education.

Author of several books, he served as chairman of the State Committee on Preparation of Public School Administrators. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa. He holds a doctorate from the University of California.

Building Extends Nearly Five Feet on Dedicated Right-of-way, City Says

Two cases in which private property owners have allegedly made improvements which encroach on a dedicated public right of way were brought to the attention of the City Council last Tuesday.

One of them posed no great

South Bay Man New Chartered Life Underwriter

Special insurance industry recognition has been accorded to Heinz J. Pulverman, staff manager for the South Bay district agency of Prudential Insurance Co.

Pulverman has successfully completed the five-part program given by the American College of Life Underwriters and has been granted the coveted Chartered Life Underwriter (CLU) designation.

Included in the advanced professional insurance studies are courses in economics, public law, taxation, business insurance, investments, corporation finance and life insurance procedures.

A native of Berlin, Germany, he attended schools there. In addition to his CLU degree he has also completed professional insurance courses administered by the Life Underwriters Training Council.

Pulverman joined Prudential in 1951 as a district agent in Santa Monica and was named staff manager last June.

He is president of the Western Area Life Underwriters (West Los Angeles) and director of the Santa Monica B'Nai B'Rith. Mr. and Mrs. Pulverman have three children, Martin and Raymond, 6, and Vivian, 5.

problem for solution, but the other one could conceivably result in litigation.

In the first case, involving a fenced bicycle area at the Catholic School located at 2371 W. Carson St., the Council instructed City Attorney S. E. Remelmeier to advise Sister Alphonsine that the fence must either be moved back or a city licence obtained to use a portion of the city right of way it now is said to occupy.

But, in the other case, involving the newly constructed Medical Building on the S.W. corner of Newton St. and Loytan Ave., may not be as easily settled.

When Gil Sellan, contractor and developer, who sub-divided the property on which the building is located, he dedicated Loytan St. to the city, with the public right of way extending in 8 feet from the curb.

Now, according to a report filed by City Engineer W. M. Noljoe, the Medical Building extends 4 feet 8 inches into that right of way.

Must Indemnify City
On recommendation of City Attorney Remelmeier, to whom the case was referred, the Council instructed him to advise the owner that the building must either be moved back or he must take out a $100,000 to $300,000 liability policy, backed by an indemnity clause and naming the city as an additional insured.

The report of the city engineer showed that Superintendent of Building Lee Schliens discovered the alleged encroachment at the time the foundation to the building was laid; and temporarily stopped construction. But subsequently John Patrick, a former building department employe, inspected the property and told the builder there was no encroachment.

Notwithstanding, this circumstance the building is now and will always be a potential liability to the city as long as the alleged encroachment exists, the city attorney told the Council in support of his recommendation.

New FHA Interest Rate Ceiling Now in Effect

Charles P. Deibel, Supervisor of the Long Beach FHA Office announced Friday that he has been advised by Director Norman M. Lyon of the Los Angeles, Insuring Office that the administrative ceiling on interest rates for FHA insured mortgages on all one- to four-family home programs were raised to 5 1/2 percent effective immediately.

Money market conditions have made these alterations necessary in order that the home buying public can be more effectively served in the purchase of housing.

Director Lyon pointed out that discounts paid for FHA mortgages have tended to become excessive in recent months. He expressed the hope that the new interest ceiling would result in the elimination of discounts in normal secondary market transactions.

He emphasized that borrowers should be able to expect their mortgages to offer the lowest possible interest rate on insured mortgages consistent with current money market requirements, and should "shop" for the lowest interest rates on residential mortgages as the American buyer shops for the lowest prices on any other commodity.

Government officials state that an unrealistic interest rate ceiling has the effect of preventing the widespread availability of insured mortgage financing which is in the best interests of the home-buying public.

FHA has been legislatively authorized by Congress to meet the demands of the home buyer and housing industry at all times and because FHA insured mortgages must remain competitive in today's market, we are realistic enough to take the necessary steps to meet this need, the Director concluded.
